1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Ability to Repay
5 Verification Enabling Act”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Economic growth requires access to afford-4 able credit which depends on consumers' ability to 5 understand the terms of any loans they make and 6 the ability of lenders to have an understanding of 7 the consumers' ability and willingness to repay
8 loans.

9 (2) New laws enacted by Congress require lend-10 ers to ascertain borrowers' willingness and ability to 11 repay prior to making a loan.

12 (3) Lenders and consumers receive benefits
13 such as quicker approval, lower interest rates, pro-
14 tection of privacy, and stronger anti-fraud protec-
15 tions from automatic underwriting utilizing existing 16 databases.

17 (4) Eleven States (Alabama, California, Flor-
18 ida, Georgia, Indiana, Louisiana, Missouri, New 19 York, Ohio, Oregon, and Virginia) passed enabling 20 legislation or rules enabling consumers who request
21 that third parties using consumer report information
22 for purposes of eligibility determination have effi-
23 cient access to this information from the State's un-
24 employment insurance database.

25 (5) Fair Credit Reporting Act requirements al-
26 ready require third parties using consumer report in-

1 formation for purposes of eligibility determination to 2 obtain and maintain consent agreements.

3 SEC. 3. PROHIBITION ON REQUIREMENT FOR ONWARD
4 TRANSFER OF CONSENT AGREEMENTS.

5 Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Sec-
6 retary of Labor may not—

7 (1) take any action to implement or enforce the 8 requirement described in the Unemployment Insur-
9 ance Program Letter No. 19–12, dated May 23,
10 2012, that a third-party consumer reporting agency
11 that serves only as a secure conduit to data from 12 State unemployment compensation agencies and that 13 is not an agent of an individual obtain and maintain 14 an informed consent agreement from such individual 15 if the third-party consumer reporting agency seeks 16 to obtain confidential unemployment compensation
17 information with respect to such individual from a 18 State; or

19 (2) issue, implement, administer, or enforce any 20 rule or other guidance that is the same as, or similar 21 in effect to, the requirement described in paragraph 22 (1).
