

117TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

S. 932

To establish the Interagency Security Classification Appeals Panel, to provide agency and higher level reviews of classification decisions, to provide expedited review of classification decisions for members of Congress, and to provide protections for those challenging classification decisions, and for other purposes.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

MARCH 23, 2021

Mr. MURPHY (for himself and Mr. WYDEN) introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs

A BILL

To establish the Interagency Security Classification Appeals Panel, to provide agency and higher level reviews of classification decisions, to provide expedited review of classification decisions for members of Congress, and to provide protections for those challenging classification decisions, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Transparency in Clas-5 sification Act of 2021”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress makes the following findings:

3 (1) A fundamental tenet of democracy is the 4 consent of the governed, which requires public
5 knowledge of governmental actions. As a result, few 6 government powers are more sacred than the ability
7 to decide which information should be withheld from 8 the public.

9 (2) The protection of our national security re-
10 quires that some of the work of the United States
11 Government be done such that this information is 12 protected if its disclosure could cause serious or 13 grave harm to national security and if such harm
14 does not outweigh the public's right to know.

15 (3) Although the executive branch of the Fed-
16 eral Government has a responsibility to weigh the 17 public's right to know when making classification de-18 cisions, it does not always do so due to errors of 19 commission and omission.

20 (4) In order to ensure an informed public while 21 simultaneously protecting certain information that 22 would harm national security if divulged, checks and 23 balances are needed for the classification system.

24 (5) Congress, by virtue of its vital role in over-
25 sight, has an interest and responsibility to address

1 abuse and improper classification by the executive
2 branch of the Federal Government.

3 (6) Although section 552 of title 5, United 4 States Code (commonly known as the “Freedom of 5 Information Act”) and other public access tools, in-
6 cluding Mandatory Declassification Review pursuant 7 to section 3.5 of Executive Order 13526 (50 U.S.C.
8 3161 note; relating to classified national security in-
9 formation), provide venues for declassifying records
10 that would not harm national security if divulged,
11 the lengthy time frame for these appeals renders
12 them ineffective in nourishing vital public debate.

13 (7) An accurate and limited classification sys-
14 tem supports both the public’s right to know and 15 government effectiveness through enabling policy co-
16 ordination, reducing costs of maintaining informa-
17 tion that need not be classified, and protecting the 18 integrity of the classification system.

19 (8) The national security of the United States
20 is enhanced both by laws permitting national secu-
21 rity agencies to occasionally limit access to sensitive
22 national security information through the classifica-
23 tion system, such as Executive Order 13526 (50
24 U.S.C. 3161 note; relating to classified national se-
25 curity information), and by an open debate on deci-

1 sions that affect the national security of the United 2 States. Both are central to the proper functioning of 3 the political institutions and democracy of the 4 United States.

5 (9) Allowing limitations on access as described
6 in paragraph (8) presents a potential for abuse,
7 where embarrassing or inconvenient information
8 could be classified for reasons other than national 9 security. This is prohibited by law, including by sec-
10 tion 1.7 of Executive Order 13526 (50 U.S.C. 3161
11 note; relating to classified national security informa-
12 tion).

13 (10) Ensuring national security agencies use
14 classification powers judiciously and in accordance 15 with the laws described in paragraph (8) requires a
16 recourse for authorized classification holders, includ-
17 ing all members of Congress, to challenge classifica-
18 tions decisions of agencies and appeal agency-level
19 classification decisions to an independent body.

20 (11) Since 1995, the Interagency Security Clas-
21 sification Appeals Panel (ISCAP) has provided the 22 public and users of the classification system with a
23 valuable forum for further review of classification
24 decisions.

1 (12) Since the founding of the Interagency Se-
2 curity Classification Appeals Panel, however, the 3 work of the Panel has been constrained by a lack of 4 resources, including classified communication tech-
5 nology and dedicated staff, as well as limited
6 progress on much-needed governmentwide mod-
7 ernization of the classification system. This has cre-
8 ated a backlog of more than 1,000 cases.

9 (13) Since 2000, the Public Interest Declassi-
10 fication Board (PIDB) has provided a vital role in 11 supporting the public interest in classification policy
12 and classification decisions, including the vital role
13 of responding to requests from Congress to consider 14 the classification decisions of specific records. This 15 advisory role plays a separate, complementary role
16 to the Interagency Security Classification Appeals
17 Panel, which is able to declassify records through its 18 appeal function.

19 (14) Section 2302(b)(9)(A) of title 5, United 20 States Code, prohibits the head of an agency from 21 taking or failing to take, or threatening to take or 22 fail to take, a personnel action against certain em-
23 ployees because of the exercise of an appeal, com-
24 plaint, or grievance right granted by any provision 25 of law.
